

Terms of use

We have compiled all information presented on our website with due diligence. Nevertheless, we do not guarantee the accuracy, integrity, and timeliness of the information.

Use of our website and web pages is subject to the following terms of use.

This website is managed by Maxhealth (hereinafter Maxhealth Corporation). We reserve the right to modify the contents of our website at our discretion at any time and without prior notice in full or in part and/or to suspend the provision of such contents.

All contents, information, documents, images, and illustrations published on this website (hereinafter "Content") are the property of Maxhealth.

Note that the text and image materials used may also be protected under copyright law.

Moreover, many Maxhealth products are also protected under patent law, design law or represent other intellectual property rights. The marks of Maxhealth are registered trademarks. This is true even if such marks are not identified by the symbol ®.

The granting of access to this Content does not create any rights thereto.

The download of Content is permitted only if the Content is provided expressly for such purpose.

Content shall not be used commercially, modified, shared with a third party, duplicated, disseminated or published in any form without prior written consent. If you wish to use Content, please contact our Customer Service.

The products shown and recommendations on product combinations represent fitting examples and a selection of Maxhealth products. No statements are made about any other products.

Whether a product is actually suitable for you and whether you are capable of exploiting the functionality of the product to its fullest depends on many different factors. Amongst others, your physical condition, fitness, and a detailed medical examination are key. Have your medical supply dealer explain the treatment, contraindications and potential risks to you in detail. Please read the product information and instructions for use.